The world that challenges all the rules of RPGs, infinite dungeons and raids that respawn regularly after every death. A world where even large-scale battles can be fought in real time. A world ruled by different elemental forces of rule over violence and the conquest of life itself, where the tranquility of your chosen race depends on your heroic actions.

A world where tumultuous tension is always threatening to spontaneously combust, but in which cutting-edge technology that has yet to be discovered is expanding its influence to the extreme. In this world, a teeming swarm of the called 'alien' is advancing towards human society, while military leaders are waiting for the call to battle without consideration of the cost of war.
