gMKVExtractGUI is a lightweight and intuitive piece of software functioning as a user interface for the extractor tool in MKVToolnix, allowing you to grab information from Matroska files in just a few clicks. In order for the application to work properly, you need to have MKVToolnix installed on your system. However, you do not need to place gMKVExtractGUI in the same directory, as it will automatically detect it. Moreover, gMKVExtractGUI requires no installation process, meaning you can launch it immediately after downloading and unzipping the archive. As such, you can store and run the utility from your USB drive on any compatible system. Thanks to this feature, you will not have to deal with any registry entries cluttering your PC, while also allowing you to get rid of gMKVExtractGUI completely, just by deleting the containing folder. After launching gMKVExtractGUI, you can browse for the targeted MKV file or drop it onto the main window of the program, then select the 'Output Directory' for the generated data. If MKVToolnix is installed on your PC, the contents of the Matroska file will be displayed in the lower panel, enabling you to select the items you wish to extract. On the upper panel, you will be able to view the 'Input File Information' (duration, date, writing application, etc). Finally, you can choose the 'Chapter Type' between XML and OGM, then click on the 'Extract Tags', 'Extract Cue' or 'Extract Tracks' button, depending on which one you need. These will be saved to the previously set location, allowing you to further work with them however you please. To conclude, gMKVExtractGUI is a useful and quite handy graphical user interface for MKVToolnix that enables you to extract tracks, tags or CUE files from MKV format videos, requiring minimal effort, thus saving you a lot of time in the process. Crusade Productions have proudly acquired the licence to produce and perform the definitive documentary of David Bowie and the impact he had on the music world. The 'David Bowie: Five Years' film is set to be released later this year. Hosted by Reema Sehgal, the film will explore David Bowie's creative journey during his first five years on the planet. The documentary will feature a series of key characters and musicians who were touched by the genius of David Bowie from 'The Man Who Sold the World' to 'The Earthling'. The film will capture many of the defining moments in David Bowie's career. These include a look at his early days in the music industry with The Konrads and his first solo single 'Space Oddity'; his reinvented take on the James Bond theme; his transformation into Ziggy Stardust with The Spiders from Mars; his politicisation as an artist with the title track from Aladdin Sane; and his near death in the 70s as he became a symbol for the British youth. The film will feature archival footage, rare interviews, rare behind the scenes footage and various artists - all of whom have a story to tell about how David Bowie influenced their lives. David Bowie's manager Tony Defries will appear for the first time in interview to share his extraordinary story about Bowie's incredible rise and career. Actress and musician Juliette Lewis will also be interviewed about what she
